What we do

design, plain and simple, right? Not quite so simple when you think about all the components which make up a design that rocks your socks... education, creativity, experience and an intuitive nature to reach inside your brain and pick out the design you had in mind but couldn't quite communicate. You know the one?

Mary Weis, principal owner and primary designer of Cyber Dimensions, has 16 years of experience in the industry serving clients just like you. That, combined with two degrees: Graphic arts prepress and Visual Communications and hundreds of satisfied clients, makes her a great candidate for your next marketing project.
